- Im a Loki fan watching the Thor movies, & Avengers. The reason why is, as a mother of an adopted son (my Oliver is 18 months old) i can relate to Loki's breaking heart when he finds out, and to Frigga's unconditional (and extra love) towards her son. It will devastate me as a mom to see my son's heartbreak , just like poor Loki. Thats why i love Loki so much, he is only seeking approval from his dad and feels like he belongs. (Greisha Stampe.)

- The Thor movies (Tru Silence)
- Loki was sort of my preferred god while growing up - I am Scandinavian. The Valhalla comic book.

 - Through Loki, as that was the first character I saw him play. (Anonymous)

Of the movies where Loki appears, which is your favorite one? Why?

- The first one, Thor, because he is the intelligent one, the character is richer than the others and you can understand how he becomes a villain. (Cuquetafera)

- TDW, because we get to see more of him.
(Fireangel76)

- "The Avengers" because it was a fun movie overall.
(Anonymous)

- Erm ALL O.o Loki. Thats all what counts! (Xieandra Sundance)

- Thor 2, because I like all the intense emotions and it has most of my favorite Loki scenes. (Anonymous)

- Thor the dark world, because we get to see a more human and kind side of him. (Anonymous)

- I like all of them because it shows how he because who he becomes, but also allows him to be redeemed.
(Melissa)

- The Thor movies show Loki's many layers and his complexity, Tom just nails it. (Greisha Stampe)

- Thor: The Dark World cause you can glimpse a different side to him. (Tru Silence)

- What - don't make me choose :-) (Anonymous)

- The Avengers, because the presence he projected was just so much stronger than everyone else's. He was truly menacing, and it was fascinating. And he was stunningly beautiful, especially in full battle garb with horns on his head. He was just too badass for words.

- (Belinda Bo Couch, Blueridge Bohemian Art)

- Thor because it sets up everything that will follow.
(Laura)
- Avengers and Thor 2. Avengers because here you can see how mischievous Loki is, how smart. Also pretty cool and funny and together with the individual characters of the Avengers its a good mix between everything. Nothing to much but also nothing less. Perfect mix. As for Thor 2 I love because of Lokis calmness, coolness in the beginning and middle. And because we can see he still cares for his family no matter what he always said against them. deep down in his heart he loves them and tgats what makes Loki the best character. (Rue Ryuzaki)
- Thor 2. I love the wise cracks and how the character expands (Marie)
- Thor 2, because Loki is in the End in the best position ever to through the world in chaos. (Allison Frost (nickname))
- The Avengers because he is so conflicted one moment, then just so bad ass the next. (Katherine Losell)
- Thor the dark world, I fell in love with loki in that movie. (BlackQuilPen)
- Thor 2 - watching him explore his grieving process was so heart wrenching and beautiful. (Scene Ripper)
- Thor: the dark world, because you see how he cares for others in his own way. (Kaycee)
- Thor: the dark world, because I really loved the situation between him and his brother. Plus, the trick with dying was absolutely awesome :) (Akvile)

- Avengers although Dark World is a very close second. (Anonymous)
- The Avengers because I love his hair and his facial expressions. (Elizabeth Berlovan)
- This one is very difficult to answer accurately in all the movies he has appeared there have been things both good and bad about the character... His first appearance in Thor he is young and hurt it appeals to me in a way I understand from personal experiences and can assume his actions were not as horrible in an old Norse society as it appears in our own a society that seems to be what his home I based on it is also safe to assume it was the pain of odors final rejection of him that truly caused Loki to act as he did in the avengers there he seeks to gain a throne as he was told he would always have and strike at his brother who he feels has wronged him at several points it seemed (at least to me) that he regretted/ felt bad about the events he had set in motion but felt trapped in them unable to see a way out even when thor offered one when brought back before Odin at the start of thor 2 he was joking I think because he didn't know how to act before the man who had raised yet rejected him honestly feeling that he had done nothing that Odin himself had not done in the past (truth to that) he shows multiple times in the battle with the dark elves when they try to save Jane that he isn't what they think him he could have tricked thor allowing malikith (spelling horrible) to kill him at the start, he could have not protected Jane, he could have not helped thor against the cursed.... Yes he did these things primarily to avenge his mother but it also seems to be done for Thor as well this seems even more apparent when you consider what I would call concern over Thor's relationship with a mortal and the pain it will bring him. (Meghan Moore)

- Thor: The Dark World. Loki redeems himself and is still a trickster. (Anonymous)

- Hmm, need to think on that one lol. (Gemma Bartlett)

- Thor 2, his smartass really comes out but he's also such a sweetheart. (Izzy)

- Thor 2 : because it's so much Loki in it hehe (Mira)

- The Avengers, because he has longer hair ;) (Sabina)

- The Dark World because you really see the range of emotions and skills, his love for his mother and Thor, how much like Odin he really is (like their words to Thor re Jane) ("Betty Monfette / Akuma)

- Thor 2 - Loki's character is more complex than ever. (Anonymous)

- That's really hard to decide on any one scene. He has so many great ones! Let's see there's "I'm listening" which shows how much of a smart ass he is. Then him changing into the different people, specifically Captain America showing his humor. His 'death' scene because it was so heart-rending. And him on the throne! It was a great relief and assurance to me that he was alive and made me so happy to see him finally on the throne." (Sarah Hunter)

On a daily basis, how much are you related to Loki? And Tom?

- A lot, my newsfeed is overloaded with him.
(Anonymous)
- I follow the Facebook site. I love fan art, specially chibis and I use to watch in youtube trailers and new updates on Tom's activities and movies. (Cuquetafera)
- I think myself as a soft sweet Tom exterior with a crunchy Loki interior. (Fireangel76)
- A lot. Example: I've discussed Tom's ties and then had a dream where I had to choose tie for Loki. :P
(Anonymous)
- Umh Loki is the reason for one of my larp characters. She's practically a female Loki. She Loves praks and is ...mean. And i love Shakespeare. (Xieandra Sundance)
- Loki is kind of an emotional catharsis for me, as well as inspiration. Tom has many of the qualities I value in myself and in others, such as a love of literature, art, and acting, as well as being kind to others and having fun in life. I hope that answers the question! (Anonymous)
- My friends and I talk about the marvel universe a couple times a day. (Anonymous)
- I relate to both a lot. Loki because we're both adopted, bookworms, smart (and teased for both). I relate to Tom because we both try to be nice people.
(Melissa)

- To Loki, I'm a mommy to an adopted baby. And to Tom bc of his kindness and love for others...and his sick dance moves, are u kidding me?! (Greisha Stampe)
- I visit Facebook often and tend to pillage pics of both. I collect all Tom's movies. (Tru Silence)
- Checking Loki's Army daily. (Anonymous)
- Even split. I am told by my friends that I am kind and generous. But I also have a healthy slug of prankster / mischief. To some, I can even be taken f (Belinda Bo Couch, Blueridge Bohemian Art)
- My friends and family know I have an obsession with the character and the actor, so it happens a lot! (Laura)
- I am as mischievous as Loki, I hide my feelings as Loki and I secretly love my family as Loki. As for Tom I think I have the same level of politeness as him. I treat everybody the same no matter how they look, what religion they have. Oh and I love Pudding and Tea ;) (Rue Ryuzaki)
- I browse some Piccys but I am playing disney infinity atm so Loki gets played with every evening >< (Marie)
- I talk often about what I believe or think of them or sometimes just talk about my wishful hoping (Allison Frost (nickname))
- I sometimes laugh like Tom (ehehehe). As far as Loki, not much relation except the odd quote from the movies in certain situations. (Katherine Losell)
- Finding, looking pictures and fanarts a few times everyday. (BlackQuilPen)
- Occasionally. (Scene Ripper)

- I have a misunderstanding with this question.. I don't know how to respond. (Kaycee)

- To Loki- probably rarely since I'm not mischevious. To Tom- I guess I could say I'm a bit like him, you know, friendly, honest type. (Akvile)

- I view multiple FB pages daily. (Anonymous)

- 70% (Elizabeth Berlovan)

- Related searches? I search several times a day for pics.... (Meghan Moore)

- I check my FB fan pages for Loki and for Tom.

(Anonymous)

- Facebook daily. (Gemma Bartlett)

- I have Tom's laugh. Tom is my spirit animal. (Izzy)

- I have no clue. (Mira)

- Related? I'm only a mere human and can't be related to Loki (Sabina)

- (not sure what this question means... if you mean do I think about them a lot then YES, very often) ("Betty Monfette / Akuma)

- So-so... (Anonymous)

- Well I want to rule the world and slick back my hair for fun to look like Loki. As for Tom, I'm a complete goofball and I have a very kind and loving heart. (Sarah Hunter)

Do you draw? If so, have you ever drawn Loki?
And Tom? Which are your favorite topics for it?

- I do. I drew Tom and Benedict Cumberbatch both half faced, the half of Ben on the left and the half of Tom on the right, with the english union jack in the background. (Anonymous)

- Yes, Loki, just him, the pose, the expression...

(Cuquetafera)

- Not since college, human proportions give me a lot of trouble. (Fireangel76)

- I draw like a drunk 5 year old. :p So, no Loki for me. (Anonymous)

- No (Tru Silence)

- Yes. Not drawing Loki - so much impressive work out there already. (Anonymous)

- I draw and paint. I recently completed a very large canvas painting entitled "Loki of Asgard." It was Loki in full battle dress, carrying his glowing scepter, and riding a black horse. It was my therapy for dealing with stress while my baby brother is treating for a very aggressive form of cancer. While that is going on, my drawings of Loki appear to convey his fierce, pensive, or tragic side, probably because of my mood. I love photos of Loki smiling, but I do not feel compelled to paint him that way. At least, not right now." (Belinda Bo Couch, Blueridge Bohemian Art)

- Don't draw (Laura)
- I do draw a lot. I study art. And yes I have drawn Loki before but not Tom yet. The best for the last :) My favorite Loki scenes to draw are from Avengers and The dark world. There he is in his true nature and thats what I like to draw. Natural pictures, not forced ones (Rue Ryuzaki)
- I can draw but I'm not good with people sketches so mainly costume drawings. (Marie)
- I've drawn Loki a few times. I love to draw him as Chibi...he seems so cute^^ (Allison Frost (nickname))
- No. (Katherine Losell)
- Yes, I plan to, haven't decide yet. (BlackQuilPen)
- Only outfits. (Kaycee)

Do you write fanfic? About Loki? About Tom?
